Tailored CVs and cover letters for your clients, delivered under your brand.

Ink & Offer is a white-label writing service for career coaches and outplacement firms. You send us your client's current CV and the job they are applying for. We send back a CV and cover letter tailored to that role, ready to go out under your name.

What partners get

- One tailored CV and one tailored cover letter for each application, written to the specific job advert.
- 12-hour turnaround from a complete brief, and free if we're more than 12 hours late.
- Line-by-line review of every document by a senior finance and commercial professional.
- White-label by default. Your clients see your brand, never ours.
- Honest tailoring. We reframe what your client has done so it lands with the employer. We never invent results.
- Local conventions. UK and Irish CVs, US résumés, and Australian and New Zealand formats, each with the right spelling.

Price per application (one CV and one cover letter)

£40	US$55	A$85	NZ$90	€45
UK	US	Australia	New Zealand	Eurozone

Your first sample is free. Send us one real brief and judge the result before you pay anything.

How it works

1
Send the brief
Your client's current CV, the job advert and any notes from your sessions.

2
We tailor and review
Rewritten for the role, then checked line by line before it leaves us.

3
You receive it in 12 hours
A finished CV and cover letter, ready for your branding.

Confidentiality

Client documents are used only to write that client's application and are never shared. We delete all client data 30 days after delivery.

FICTIONAL SAMPLE · INK & OFFER PORTFOLIO

Case A: Accountant to FP&A business partner

Candidate	Hannah Okafor (fictional), CIMA-qualified management accountant, Leeds
Starting point	Five years as management accountant for three food-manufacturing sites; generic, duty-led CV
Target role	FP&A Business Partner, Supply Chain & Operations, at Kestrel Home Brands (fictional advert)
Market and format	UK CV, one page, UK spelling; UK cover letter

What we changed

The original CV opened with a generic profile and listed duties in the order they happen at month-end, so the strongest evidence for a business partner role was buried. We rewrote the headline and profile around the advert's priorities, moved the monthly results reviews with site managers, the weekly KPI pack for the Operations Director and the budget and reforecast work to the top, and lifted the month-end improvement (seven working days to five) and the Dynamics 365 key-user role out of the duty list so they read as achievements. We mirrored the advert's language only where Hannah's experience genuinely matches it, kept her Power BI skills described honestly as working knowledge, and removed her date of birth, nationality, full address, GCSEs, A-levels, interests and the ‘references available’ line, none of which help a shortlister. Every fact and figure comes from the original CV.

In this case

1. The job advert – the role the client is applying for
2. Before – the CV exactly as the client supplied it
3. After – the CV we wrote for this role
4. Cover letter – tailored to the same advert

FP&A Business Partner – Supply Chain & Operations

Kestrel Home Brands · Leeds (hybrid, 3 days on site) · Permanent, full-time · £55,000 – £62,000 + 10% bonus + benefits

About us

Kestrel Home Brands makes and sells household cleaning and home-care products across the UK and Ireland from two manufacturing sites in West Yorkshire. We are a growing, privately owned business of around 650 people, and our finance team is moving from scorekeeping to genuine business partnering.

The role

Reporting to the Head of FP&A, you will be the finance partner to our Supply Chain and Operations leadership team. You will own the budget and forecast for the operations cost base, explain performance in plain language and help leaders make better decisions on cost, capacity and efficiency.

What you will do

- Lead the annual budget and quarterly reforecast for manufacturing and supply chain costs
- Partner with site and operations leaders through monthly performance reviews, challenging and supporting in equal measure
- Produce clear variance analysis and commentary for the senior leadership team
- Develop and maintain KPI reporting: yield, waste, labour efficiency and cost per unit
- Build and improve forecasting and costing models
- Drive process improvement across reporting and planning, including our Power BI roll-out

What we are looking for

- CIMA, ACCA or ACA qualified
- Management accounting experience in a manufacturing or FMCG environment
- Confidence working with non-finance stakeholders and presenting to senior leaders
- Strong Excel and modelling skills; Power BI experience is a plus
- Experience of ERP systems (Microsoft Dynamics desirable)

How to apply

Send your CV and a cover letter to our Talent Team, quoting reference KHB-FP-114. Closing date: 30 October 2026.

Management Accountant moving into FP&A Business Partnering · Manufacturing

PROFILE

CIMA-qualified management accountant with over ten years in finance, the last five in food manufacturing. Owns monthly management reporting for three manufacturing sites and works directly with site managers and the Operations Director on performance against budget and forecast. Built a standard costing model that cut month-end close from seven working days to five, and was finance key user on a Microsoft Dynamics 365 ERP go-live. Now looking to step into an FP&A business partner role supporting an operations leadership team.

KEY SKILLS

Planning and analysis: annual budgeting, quarterly reforecasting, variance analysis, standard costing

Business partnering: monthly results reviews with site managers; weekly KPI reporting to the Operations Director (yield, waste, labour hours)

Systems: Microsoft Dynamics 365 (finance key user), advanced Excel (pivot tables, lookups, costing models), Sage 50, Power BI (working knowledge)

PROFESSIONAL EXPERIENCE

Management Accountant

Brackenfield Foods Ltd, Wakefield · Mar 2021 – Present

- Own the monthly management accounts for three manufacturing sites, including variance analysis of actuals against budget and forecast.
- Review results each month with the site managers, taking them through performance against budget and forecast.
- Produce the weekly KPI pack for the Operations Director, tracking yield, waste and labour hours.
- Support the Financial Controller on the annual budget and quarterly reforecasts.
- Built a new standard costing model in Excel that reduced month-end close from 7 to 5 working days.
- Finance key user for the Microsoft Dynamics 365 ERP implementation, which went live in 2023.
- Deputise for the Financial Controller during periods of leave, and supervise one Assistant Accountant.
- Maintain balance sheet reconciliations, accruals and prepayments.

Re: FP&A Business Partner – Supply Chain & Operations (ref. KHB-FP-114)

Dear Talent Team,

I am applying for the FP&A Business Partner role supporting your Supply Chain and Operations team. For the past five years I have been the management accountant for three manufacturing sites at Brackenfield Foods, and the part of the job I value most is the one your advert puts at the centre: sitting with operations leaders and helping them understand what the numbers mean for their sites.

Each month I take the site managers through results against budget and forecast, and each week I produce the KPI pack the Operations Director uses to track yield, waste and labour hours. Those are the measures your role reports on, and I am used to discussing them with people who run production lines rather than spreadsheets. I also support the Financial Controller on the annual budget and quarterly reforecasts, so I know the planning cycle from the inside.

I enjoy improving how finance works, not just running it. I built a standard costing model in Excel that brought our month-end close down from seven working days to five, and I was the finance key user when we moved onto Microsoft Dynamics 365 in 2023. My Power BI experience is at a working level today, and your roll-out is exactly the kind of project I would like to grow into.

I am CIMA qualified (ACMA, CGMA) and would welcome the chance to discuss how I could support your operations team. Thank you for considering my application.

Yours faithfully,

Hannah Okafor

FICTIONAL SAMPLE · INK & OFFER PORTFOLIO

Case B: Teacher returning to work, moving into L&D

Candidate	Claire Whitfield (fictional), qualified secondary science teacher, Bristol
Starting point	Nine years teaching, then a career break since 2021; CV written for schools, not employers
Target role	Learning & Development Specialist (returners welcome) at Harbourline Insurance Services (fictional advert)
Market and format	UK CV, one page, UK spelling; UK cover letter

What we changed

Claire's original CV apologised for her career break and described teaching in classroom terms that a corporate recruiter would struggle to translate. We repositioned her as a learning professional with a teaching background: the headline and profile now name the target field, and her experience leads with the parts that map directly to L&D, namely writing a new Year 8 scheme of work, training staff on Google Classroom during the move to remote teaching, mentoring four trainee teachers and leading seven form tutors. Her career break is stated plainly with dates, and the instructional design course and volunteering, previously buried under ‘Other’, now show she kept her skills current. The cover letter addresses the missing CIPD qualification openly rather than hoping no one notices. We removed the full address, A-levels, hobbies and the references line. Nothing was added that was not in the original.

In this case

1. The job advert – the role the client is applying for
2. Before – the CV exactly as the client supplied it
3. After – the CV we wrote for this role
4. Cover letter – tailored to the same advert

Learning & Development Specialist (Returners Welcome)

Harbourline Insurance Services · Bristol (hybrid, 2 days in the office) · Permanent, full-time or 4 days a week · £36,000 – £40,000 + benefits

About us

Harbourline is an independent insurance services business with around 400 colleagues across Bristol and Cardiff. We are proud of our returners programme, which supports people coming back to work after a career break.

The role

Joining a small L&D team of three, you will design and deliver learning that helps our colleagues do their best work, from new-starter onboarding to management development.

What you will do

- Design and deliver engaging training sessions, face to face and virtually
- Run our new-starter induction and onboarding programme
- Work with managers to identify learning needs and turn them into practical solutions
- Create learning materials, e-learning modules and guides
- Evaluate the impact of training and improve it based on feedback
- Coach and support colleagues who deliver training in their own teams

What we are looking for

- Experience designing and delivering training or teaching, in any setting
- Confidence presenting to groups and facilitating discussion
- Strong organisation, with the ability to manage several programmes at once
- Comfort with digital learning tools and virtual delivery
- CIPD Level 3 or 5 in Learning & Development desirable, not essential; we support study

Hiring Manager, Learning & Development
Harbourline Insurance Services
Bristol

Re: Learning & Development Specialist (ref. HL-LD-207)

Dear Hiring Manager,

I am delighted to apply for the Learning & Development Specialist role, and particularly glad to see that Harbourline welcomes returners. I am a qualified teacher with nine years' experience designing and delivering learning, and after a planned career break I am ready to bring those skills to a workplace setting.

Much of what your advert describes is work I have already done. I wrote a new Year 8 science scheme of work, which meant turning a broad curriculum into a sequenced programme that a whole department could teach. When my school moved to remote teaching in 2020, I ran training sessions to help colleagues use our online learning platform, Google Classroom, so I know what it takes to train adults who are busy and under pressure. I also mentored four trainee teachers through their PGCE placements.

As Head of Year 9 I led a team of seven form tutors and looked after around 180 students, so I am used to managing several priorities at once and working with people at every level. During my career break I have kept my skills current, completing a course in instructional design in 2025 and volunteering as a reading helper at a local primary school.

I do not yet hold a CIPD qualification, and I would welcome the study support you offer. Thank you for considering my application; I would value the chance to talk about how I could help your colleagues learn.

Yours faithfully,

Claire Whitfield

Case C: US operations manager to program manager

Candidate	Jordan Ellis (fictional), operations manager, Columbus, Ohio
Starting point	Nine years running a distribution center; position eliminated in a site consolidation, August 2026
Target role	Program Manager, Fulfillment Network, at Northvale Home Goods (fictional posting)
Market and format	US résumé, one page, US spelling; US cover letter

What we changed

Jordan's résumé led with a generic objective and a list of responsibilities, and buried the two experiences that matter most for a program manager role: a two-site WMS rollout delivered on schedule and a seat on the site consolidation team. We rebuilt it in US format with a targeted headline and summary, a core competencies section that mirrors the posting's keywords only where the experience supports them, and accomplishment-first bullets that put those programs, the $9.5M budget and the 18% overtime reduction ahead of day-to-day duties. The layoff is stated once, factually, as a position elimination due to consolidation, and the cover letter turns it into relevant experience. We removed the objective, the soft-skill clichés, the forklift certification, the street address and the references line, used US spelling throughout and kept it to one page. Every figure comes from the original résumé.

About us

Northvale Home Goods is an online retailer of furniture and home decor, shipping to customers across the Midwest and East Coast from four fulfillment centers. We're expanding our network and need a program manager who understands how warehouses really run.

The role

You'll lead cross-functional programs that open, expand and improve our fulfillment sites, bringing operations, IT, HR and finance together around one plan.

What you'll do

- Plan and lead multi-site programs from kickoff to launch, including system rollouts and site transitions
- Build and manage program schedules, budgets, risks and dependencies
- Coordinate cross-functional teams across operations, IT, HR and finance
- Report program status and KPIs clearly to senior leadership
- Lead change management so frontline teams are ready on day one
- Apply Lean and continuous improvement methods to program delivery

What we're looking for

- 7+ years in operations, supply chain or program management
- Proven experience delivering technology or process change across multiple sites
- Experience managing budgets and working with senior stakeholders
- PMP or Lean Six Sigma certification preferred
- Proficiency with Smartsheet, MS Project or similar tools

Re: Program Manager, Fulfillment Network (Req. #NV-PM-3381)

Dear Hiring Team,

Northvale is looking for a program manager who understands how warehouses really run. I have spent 14 years in distribution and fulfillment operations, the last nine running a 220,000 sq. ft. distribution center, and the work I have found most rewarding is exactly what this role is built around: bringing operations, IT, HR and finance together to deliver change across sites.

In 2022 I led the rollout of a new warehouse management system across two sites and took it live on schedule. Most recently I served on the cross-functional team planning the transfer of our site's volume to the company's Indianapolis facility. That consolidation led to my position being eliminated in August 2026, and it gave me first-hand experience of the kind of site transition your expansion will involve.

Day to day, I managed a $9.5M operating budget with Finance, led six shift supervisors and approximately 140 associates, and reported KPIs weekly to our regional director. I redesigned our shift schedules to cut overtime by 18% in 2023 and planned every peak season, including hiring and training up to 60 seasonal associates. I hold a Lean Six Sigma Green Belt, work in Smartsheet, and am currently preparing for the PMP exam.

I would welcome the chance to discuss how my experience could help Northvale open and grow its fulfillment sites. Thank you for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,

Jordan Ellis
